ADVANCE OF GERMAN ARMY.

Stubbornly Resisted.

LEFT WING FALLS BACK.

FORTY MILES FROM PARIS.

Austrian Reverse.

DECISIVE BATTLE

Heavy and continuous fighting has been in progress all along the western line in France since the end of last week.

The news messages are being heavily censored, and, as far as can be gathered, neither the Allies nor the Germans have obtained much advantage, there having been successes and checks on both sides.

Mr. Martin Donohoe has cabled a description of the determined German attack on the Allies' left wing.

The British, who bore the brunt of the attack, were forced to give ground after a day of the most sanguinary fighting.

The French right and centre continued to hold their own, and when the full force of the German attack had been spent the Germans inflicted heavy loss on the Germans in a sharp counter-attack.

Mr. Donohoe stated that the fight was resumed on Monday, when fresh onslaughts were being made on the British; but the latter had been reinforced, and were confident of checking the enemy's advance.

The Agent-General's cablegram states that the Allies' left now rests on Beuvry, which is within 40 miles of Paris.

Full preparations, in view of a further advance of the German troops, are being made for the defence of Paris.

The Russians appear to have inflicted a crushing defeat on the Austrians, and it is believed in some quarters that the great battle that is now concluding will prove to be a decisive one.

There is a boom in recruiting in England, and on Monday a record number of men were enlisted in London.

WAR BULLETIN.

BATTLE RAGING.

A CRITICAL STRUGGLE.

MELBOURNE, Wednesday. The following cable has been received by Mr. Glynn from Sir George Reid, dated London, September 1, 8.20 a.m.: "The War Office, Paris, states that the right flank, after partial checks, has taken the offensive. The enemy retired in the centre. All morning checks and successes have occurred in the general battle, which is in progress on the left. Circumstances favoured the Germans, and, despite counter attacks, the Anglo-French line had to yield ground. However, however, have our arms been broken through during the three days' battle, which is still proceeding in the districts of Saint Quentin, Verdun, and Peronne. The left wing is engaging the best German troops."

AGENT-GENERAL'S CABLE.

The following cablegram has been received by the Premier from the Agent-General, dated London, September 1, 6.49 p.m.:

"The left wing of the Allied army now rests on Beuvry, and runs along by Saint Just, La Fere, Guise, Verme, and Meuse, thence along the left bank of the Meuse as telegraphed yesterday. Beuvry is within 40 miles of the centre of Paris."

A great battle has raged in front of La Fere, round Saint Quentin, Ham, and Peronne. The French claim that their line has so far not really been broken through."

Full preparations, in view of the advance of German troops, are being made in Paris. The work of putting the entrenched camp of Paris in a state of defence is being completed.

The British troops are believed to be stationed to the west of La Fere, but it is not known how far they are engaged in the battle now raging."

THE NAVIES.

IN THE PACIFIC.

GERMAN CRUISER NURNBERG.

MONTELU, Sept. 1. The German cruiser Nürnberg has arrived here, and under the Neutralty Laws she can remain only 24 hours, and take in sufficient coal to take her to the nearest German port.

THE ARMIES.

GERMAN ATTACK.

FORCED TO GIVE GROUND.

PARIS, Sept. 1. It is officially stated that on the Allies' left wing a series of circumstances favoured the Germans, and, despite counter attacks, the Allies had to give ground, but our armies have nowhere been broken, and their morale is excellent.

GREAT FLANK ATTACK.

WEEK-END BATTLE.

LONDON, Sept. 2. Heavily-censored messages narrate that the Germans' great wheel to the French left continued on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, and resulted in a fierce encounter with the troops collected to prolong the Allies' line.

The Germans gained a success against the French territory, which was only retrieved by the stand made by a long line of artillery occupying the crest of a gently-sloping plateau. This finally forced the German skirmishers to fall back in disorder so as to escape the shrapnel.

The outstanding incident of the battle on Sunday was the attack of the Algerian infantry. As they marched up to the firing line they amused the townsfolk by making gestures of cutting throats, accompanied by flourishes of their fists in the direction of the firing.

CONTINUOUS FIGHTING.

LONDON, Sept. 2.

A telegram from Boulogne states that incessant fighting has occurred since Thursday, in the Aisne district. Neither side has obtained much advantage, but after two days' fairly even fighting the French forced the enemy to retire, leaving heaps of dead and wounded on the field. The French losses were also heavy.

The Germans are still bringing up huge masses of men from their base to fill the tremendous gaps made in the advance lines.

A CORRESPONDENT'S ACCOUNT.

LONDON, Sept. 2.

Mr. Martin Donohoe, war correspondent to the London "Daily Chronicle," cabling from a town in the Somme Department of France on Monday, states:—"The Germans are throwing their whole weight against the British on the Allies' left wing."

"The battle commenced with very heavy artillery fire, in which the Germans were well served by their air corps."

"The success of the Germans was due to the fact that the French were not prepared for the attack, and the German artillery was well served by the German infantry."

"When the artillery fire slackened the German infantry force struck at the Allies' left."

"The British bore the brunt of the attack, and masses of Germans buried themselves for hours against a wall of steel."

"Towards evening the British were compelled to give ground slowly, after a day of the most sanguinary fighting."

THE FIGHTING IN FRANCE.

The above map gives the position of the armies according to the latest cables. The point where the most severe fighting is going on is around Peronne, Ham, St. Quentin and La Fere. The British are believed to be west of La Fere, that is to say, about Ham, Peronne, or St. Just. Beuvry, to which the Allies left has retired, is only 40 miles from Paris. The British communications with Dinan are still probably free, but there is reason to believe that the route actually being used is through Fiers. Fighting is also going on near the Meuse in the north-east. It will be seen that the Allied army practically holds the line of the rivers Oise and Meuse. Rivers are the chief difficulties in the way of armies, and the greater part of the fighting in the war has so far been either at or near the crossing places of the Somme, the Meuse, and the Oise.

IN BELGIUM.

FRESH GERMAN ACTIVITY.

MOVE AGAINST ANTWERP.

OSTEND, Sept. 1.

There has been a considerable movement of fresh German troops into Brussels. In all, 30,000 are to arrive to-day.

The German Governor has ordered the expulsion of all British subjects within 24 hours.

The Germans are fortifying the environs, and the cemetery has been transformed into a redoubt.

The Duke of Brunswick occupies the Royal Castle, and is reputedly entertaining a large company.

Belgians cycling on the outskirts of the city have been frequently shot through falling to comprehend German commands.

M. Max, the Burgomaster, resenting the false German proclamation, has issued a proclamation in large type denying it.

M. Max and the German Governor are sharing the Town Hall.

OSTEND, Sept. 2. A great movement of German troops from Brussels towards Liège and Yperme is being carried out, and this is interpreted as an early attempt to invest and bomb the port.

Belgian King.

A narrow escape.

ANTWERP, Sept. 2. A shell exploded a few yards from King Albert, who was directing the Belgian operations at Malines.

One rear wheel of his motor car was torn off.

DEADLY MACHINE GUNS.

ANTWERP, Sept. 2. The Belgians agree that the German machine guns are most effective. One was installed in a parish church, and surprised a Belgian detachment 350 strong, who were taking a hasty meal, and only 50 of them escaped.

ZEPPELIN AT ANTWERP.

ANTWERP, Sept. 2. The German Zeppelin alighted in the city recently dropped bombs on the city. It was, however, apparently greeted with a rifle fusillade, and was also fired on with big guns. The Zeppelin disappeared without doing any damage.

THE RUSSIANS.

CRUSHING AUSTRIAN DEFEAT.

DECISIVE BATTLE.

ROME, Sept. 1. Messages from Bucharest state that the Austrian defeat in Galicia was colossal. Trains are transporting tens of thousands of wounded, and numerous regiments were completely destroyed. The Landsturm and Landwehr are replacing these troops.

The Rumanian General Staff declares that the battle will be found to have been decisive.

LONDON, Sept. 1. The "Daily News" Rome correspondent states that the Austrians lost 20,000 men in Galicia.

ADVANCE ON LEMBERG.

VIENNA, Sept. 1. It is officially announced that the Austrians have been removed from Lemberg, the capital of Galicia, in expectation of the Russian occupation.

"GERMAN SUCCESSORS."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1. The German Embassy is continually issuing reports of German victories. The latest appears to be the capture of 32,000 Russians at Allenstein, south of Königsberg, including two generals and the entire artillery of the force.

BATTLE OF MONS.

THRILLING STORIES.

HOW THE BRITISH FOUGHT.

LONDON, Sept. 1.

Among the war stories brought from the front, one is related by a wounded Highlander, who is believed to be about Ham, Peronne, or St. Just. Beuvry, to which the Allies left has retired, is only 40 miles from Paris. The British communications with Dinan are still probably free, but there is reason to believe that the route actually being used is through Fiers. Fighting is also going on near the Meuse in the north-east. It will be seen that the Allied army practically holds the line of the rivers Oise and Meuse. Rivers are the chief difficulties in the way of armies, and the greater part of the fighting in the war has so far been either at or near the crossing places of the Somme, the Meuse, and the Oise.

The French were accordingly preparing for the Germans, the latter, with a striking force of 40,000, searched for the weakest point in the Allied line, and this was where the British happened to have been placed.

"The Germans," he says, "hurled themselves at us before we could look round, and the lid of hell was lifted. At first the Germans advanced as though they were out for a picnic. We ploughed gaps yards wide in their ranks here and there. They realised that a funeral march would be more appropriate."

"When the first retreat started on Monday," he continued, "the Germans pressed on all their available arms to burst us out for a picnic. We ploughed gaps yards wide in their ranks here and there. They realised that a funeral march would be more appropriate."

is fair and right, but not if one man fouls, gouges, and bites.

"I saw Germans after the destruction of Louvain like men who had been through an orgy, laughing, hysterical, and shouting. The destruction was done systematically, and continued for 30 hours. They gathered the furniture together in church, house, and shop, and when they saw the first floor burning passed on."

"I saw a hundred men led away to be shot, while an officer stood on a cask telling their wives, mothers, and sisters what was going to be done."

"Even the German official reports, as given to the United States and Spanish Ministers, only state that a son of the burgomaster first on the Chief of Staff of the General commanding in Louvain. If this is true, the boy should have been shot and the matter ended. Instead the General immediately ordered the destruction of the city."

Mr. Davis adds:—"The whole march of the Germans from Liege to Brussels has been marked by a succession of wrecked villages."

AT NAMUR.

ANTWERP, Sept. 2. The Germans have blown up the Hotel de Ville (Town Hall), at Namur.

THE BELGIAN MISSION.

The mission from Belgium, which is en route to the United States to protest against the atrocities committed by the Germans, is visiting King George and the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs (Sir Edward Grey).

Sept. 2. King George, in reply to the address presented by the Belgian mission, declared that he was shocked at the reports of German brutality, and added that he was grateful for the gallant assistance that had been rendered the British by Belgium.

CALLOUSNESS AT LEIPSIG.

ROME, Sept. 2. Travellers arriving in Italy state that the English, French, and Russian pavilions in the Leipzig Exhibition at Leipzig, containing remarkable art collections, have been burnt, and that the city lent no assistance to stop the fire.

JESUIT PROFESSORS SHOT.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 2. Two Jesuit professors of the University of Louvain were shot because they had in their possession papers relating to the German atrocities.

ENEMY'S MARKSMANSHIP.

The consensus of opinion amongst the wounded who have arrived in England is that the German rifle fire is extremely poor, and even their overwhelming numbers would not have overthrown much in the recent fighting but for the excellent German gun-fire.

The wounded state that the reason that so many of the Highlanders have been wounded in the legs is that their legs and feet are easily visible at a distance against the khaki.

LONDON, Sept. 2. A wounded lancer in a letter to a friend pointed out the German attack a lot of importance to mowed artillery. For hours all guns seem to play on our little spot, until the din and noise of the shrieking shell overhead is terrible. Apparently it is intended to shatter the nerves. Most of us stuffed our ears with cotton wool. Noise seems to count a lot with the Germans. The cavalry have a trick of thrusting along so that the horses' hoofs make a most awful din, giving the impression that the whole earth is sinking, added to which are wild, uncanny shouts.

THE SPIRIT OF KITCHENER.

Newspaper correspondents state that the spirit of Lord Kitchener pervades the whole expeditionary force. The ammunition has been supplied to the firing line without a hitch.

Of 1000 motor vehicles only one traction has been lost.

The Germans fire with their rifles held underneath their shoulders, relying on the volume of lead rather than on accurate shooting.

FRENCH APPRECIATION.

PARIS, Sept. 1. General Sir John French, commanding the British expeditionary force, has driven round the English lines and congratulated the troops on their splendid work.

General Joffre has also sent a message to the British troops, thanking them for their services, which, he says, "have placed the French army under a debt which it can hardly repay."

BRITISH CASUALTIES.

LONDON, Sept. 2. It is officially stated that the casualties in one cavalry brigade and three divisions of infantry, minus one brigade, show that 30 officers had been killed, 57 wounded, and 95 are missing, while of other ranks 127 have been killed, 629 wounded, and 4183 missing.

A considerable proportion of the missing are wounded who have been sent to hospitals out of touch with headquarters.

The names of the officers killed will be published on Wednesday.

Lord Plymouth's second son was wounded in the battle of Mons.

GERMAN BRUTALITY.

FURTHER EVIDENCE.

SLAUGHTER BRITISH WOUNDED.

LONDON, Sept. 1. Mr. M. Donohoe, war correspondent for the "Daily Chronicle," relates that a sergeant in the Middlesex Regiment, who was wounded during the battle of Mons, lay helpless.

As the German infantry swept by the series of the wounded told him that they were being ruthlessly slaughtered, and the sergeant simulated death.

As the Germans passed him, he received a violent blow on the chest with the butt of a rifle, which broke a rib, and another Prussian stabbed him with a bayonet.

THE LOUVAIN HORROR.

NEUTRAL'S ACCOUNT.

LONDON, Sept. 2. Mr. Richard Harding Davis, the well-known United States novelist and war correspondent, who is one of those who visited Louvain, states:—"President Wilson urges Americans to be neutral, but he has never seen the war."

"It is right to stand on the side-line if all

is fair and right, but not if one man fouls, gouges, and bites.

"I saw Germans after the destruction of Louvain like men who had been through an orgy, laughing, hysterical, and shouting. The destruction was done systematically, and continued for 30 hours.
